Appomattox 'Beautiful Christmas Village'

Appomattox became a town of Christmas beauty according to the judges who awarded ribbons for decorated homes and doorways, Tuesday, December 21, a part of the annual Appomattox Garden Club Decoration contest.

Both homes and places of businesses were praised for their all-out effort to provide light, color and artistic interpretation of the seasonal spirit of Joh.

Mrs. A. T. Poole, Jr., President of the Appomattox Garden Club and its members are appreciative for the response and success of the Christmas Home decoration contest.

The out of town judges, who have judged homes in many areas of this part of the State, were profuse in their remarks about the "Town of Appomattox and the homes judged in the surrounding area." "They" commented on the homes that were outstanding in artistic design; lighting effects and traditionally unique. They were impressed with the town businesses and Radio Tower Star, In fact, they stated that "Appomattox was a Beautiful Christmas Village and should be made known to surrounding cities and towns, for a public tour.

Oval Frames Decorate Doors

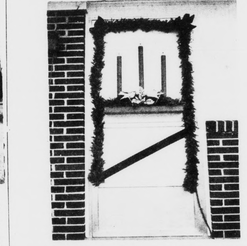
Door decorations of old, oval picture frames provided a "take-off" point for the handsome decorations at the Martin Webb home (above) on Church Street. Each front door was marked with an oval frame, red velvet ribbon and polished red apples and other appropriate appointments. Spot lighting and artistic use of candles and lantern door lights impressed the judges in the annual Garden Club Decoration contest. Lighting and decorations continue around to the back of the home where a side entrance and back courtyard and patio were dressed for the holidays with greens, wreaths and ribbon. In the same category Mr. and Mrs. G. L. James won a red ribbon with a yellow ribbon going to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph King.

Harwood Door Rates Ribbon

A blue ribbon went to the A. R. Harwood, Jr. home (above) where door decoration carrying out a traditional theme was dramatized by wrought iron porch furniture and accessories.

The judges in the annual Christmas Decoration contest found much to praise throughout the community in the annual Garden Club contest and considered that for balance, appropriateness and use of materials this door setting was the winner.

Red ribbon went to Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Moses, Jr; Yellow to Miss Annie Hancock. Honorable mention went to Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Stanley; Dr. and Mrs. Mark Weatherly.



2nd Win for Jamerson Home

The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Jamerson on Road 727 is a second-year winner in the Over All Traditional category, a part of the annual Garden Club Christmas Decoration contest. Mrs. Jamerson had just picked up some Christmas Mail and was talking with Doris Dixon (above) as the camera clicked. The Jamerson's dog "Curley" was not to be left out. It's his second appearance in the Times-Virginian as a "winner", too.

In the Williamsburg tradition, apples and native greens were used as focal points in decorating the home, half-circle of polished apples surrounding a pineapple (symbol of "hospitality") over the front door ushers the visitors into a home as attractively decorated and lighted as the exterior. Second place winners were Mr. and Mrs. Webster Babcock with a yellow ribbon to Mr. and Mrs. H. W. (Billy) Conner. Honorable mention went to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Barger.

Coleman Door Wins Blue

Three candles in red against a white background with green accents won a blue ribbon for decorated doors - contemporary or modern for Mr. and Mrs. K. E. Coleman of Lucy Street, Appomattox. A red ribbon went to Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Mitchell; yellow to Mr. and Mrs. Hannon Wilson and honorable mention to Mr. and Mrs. David Nash and Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Guill. These awards and others are a part of the annual Decoration contest sponsored by the Appomattox Garden Club.
